First 30 workers are headed to Rovinj from the area of Koprivnica, Križevci, Varaždin and Zagreb. Among them are many with seasonal experience of working at the coast, so moving to Rovinj will not be new to them.

„I need a job, and I am used to being a field worker, i.e. working at the coast during the season, so the seaside is my destiny. I worked at a fish restaurant, so I am familiar with working with fish“, Jasminka Mehkek from Novigrad Podravski said.

Among new employees of Mirna Rovinj is also the young Marin Muktić, 19-year old from Sirova Katalena, who graduated from secondary school in construction and is currently without a job. His mother Marina is also looking forward to his new job at Rovinj, who said: „There is no work here, he should pursue his own life. Perhaps he finds some Istrian girl, so we all have a place to go to the seaside. “

From early this year Podravka is constantly searching for labour at Mirna factory in Rovinj, where during 2017 it invested about HRK 50 million in a new production line for processing and production of sardines mackerel and tuna. In order to be able to respond to demands and market needs, Podravka requires about 120 process workers on production lines of tuna and mackerel.

Workers are offered an average pay in food industry, possibility of stimulating rewards for achieving top-notch results during shifts, all the rights from Collective agreement, such as the right to Easter and Christmas bonus, gift for children at Christmas and similar, as well as stimulations for working in the 2nd shift.
